Straight talking

Your private equity experts

Gateley / LEGAL

We have instructed Gateley for many years on our PE transactions, both on investment, interim M&A and exit and we rate their input extremely highly, not only their technical advice, but their commercial approach and transaction execution skills, which are absolutely first rate.”

Tony Dickin, Managing Partner – Buyout Investment, Palatine Private Equity

Gateley are my trusted adviser on investments and exits. They coordinate complex transactions without losing sight of the client's priorities and commercial objectives. At every stage, they collaborate effectively with other professional advisers to drive through to completion.”

Martim Avillez, Founding Partner,
COO at Limerston Capital

Your private equity experts

Private equity transactions sit at the very heart of our corporate work. Our private equity team have extensive experience advising private equity firms, management teams and portfolio companies on a broad range of transactions including investments, buy-and-build and other bolt on acquisitions and exits, whether effected via trade sale, secondary buyout, or IPO. From working for and opposite many private equity funds, we understand pinch points in negotiations and can navigate these to avoid delays and unnecessary costs.

At our core, we're dealmakers and we never lose sight of getting the deal over the line and with the best outcome for all involved. We offer straight talking, pragmatic advice and have a proven track record of becoming trusted advisers to private equity firms and businesses across their investment and growth journey.

let's talk...

We advise on every stage of the private equity lifecycle

Working together

Our private equity team will bring their extensive knowledge and experience to every stage of a private equity transaction and are able to act for any party involved.

- private equity sponsors
- business owners looking for an exit
- management teams seeking financial support for a buy-out
- private/ high-net-worth investors
- debt funders and banks providing finance alongside private equity
- specialist infrastructure and private equity real estate funds
- first-time and experienced teams on private equity deals
- banking/tax clients

Private equity firms we work with

Working closely with private equity funds means we understand their investment strategies, their values, what they want and how they assess value. We never lose sight of our client's priorities and commercial objectives, and at every stage we collaborate effectively with all parties and other advisers to drive through to completion.

Here's a small selection of funds we regularly work with:

“The Gateley team takes a highly engaged and collaborative approach, taking time to understand the context in which their clients operate and adding value accordingly.”

Banking and cutting through complexity

The competitive acquisition and leveraged finance markets have evolved rapidly in recent years and advisors need to cut through the complexity in this space to help clients in making the most of these innovative financial structures.

Our Banking & Finance team has an extremely strong private equity and acquisition finance practice, acting for many of the leading national sponsors and funders providing leveraged and corporate finance.

Whether you are a growing business seeking to raise finance from a specialist funder, traditional lender, or private equity house, or you are an established organisation looking to refinance or restructure facilities, you need to work with advisers that have the experience to identify the debt structure best suited to your strategic objectives.

Tax and maximising stakeholder value

We can act for any party involved in a private equity transaction and can also help them in maximising their after-tax returns. Our tax structuring team ensures that transactions are implemented in the most tax efficient manner available for our clients.

- Ensuring the corporate structure maximises tax deductions on investor debt as well as advising on how to prevent unnecessary dry tax charges and withholding taxes
- Providing exiting shareholders with advice on utilising the tax reliefs available to minimise tax on the exit, rolling over their investments without crystallising tax and interweaving the estate planning requirements of a change of asset class
- Enabling management teams to structure their acquisition of shares to avoid immediate tax charges while securing optimal tax treatment on their future share gains
- Securing the valuable tax reliefs that are available to business investors and ensuring that returns can be received in a tax efficient manner
- Procuring the right balance between security for lenders with optimal tax deductions for the borrower.

Our consultancy businesses

As well as our people, what also sets Gateley apart is the consultancy businesses within our Group. These businesses regularly work with portfolio managers and management teams to help accelerate value realisation and improve performance.

Jonathan Brod, Managing Partner, Next Wave Partners

Gateley Capitus

Capital allowances

Our capital allowances service can be applied at each stage of the property investment lifecycle:

- › Pre-purchase/ pre-construction: We can provide pre-contract advice on property acquisitions to ensure a client's capital allowances are identified and dealt with effectively. We undertake assessment of new construction projects, refurbishments and fitting out works to understand and maximise the availability of plant and machinery allowances, structures and buildings allowances and other related tax reliefs.
- › Post-purchase: We undertake historical reviews of property portfolios to capture unclaimed capital allowances.
- › Disposal: We provide advice to advisors and their clients on the disposal of property to ensure current and future tax relief is not inadvertently forfeited.

R&D tax credits

R&D tax relief is not limited to traditional ‘white lab coat’ industries. If a company is trying to solve uncertain technical problems it may well be carrying out ‘R&D’ and many of its costs – including utilities, staff costs, consumables and even external contractor costs – could be eligible for this very generous tax relief.

We help companies to access and maximise their entitlement to tax incentives. We guide clients through the entire process of making an R&D tax credit claim from start to finish, whatever the size of company, the nature of the business or the scale of the R&D activity.

Changing Places

An example of how our legal and consultancy services work together to the benefit of our clients is our Changing Places initiative. Our lawyers, surveyors and behaviour specialists work together to deliver all aspects of relocating a business, providing

- › Unparalleled support throughout an organisation's transformation journey
- › Seamless project management
- › Speedier results
- › Best in class protection on all property interests.

We support business relocations, downsizing, upsizing, upgrades, or exits. Over the past year, we have saved clients on average over 83% on exit liabilities. Our approach saves time and money, reduces risk and ensures project quality.

Whether acquiring, merging or consolidating, our integrated legal and technical approach ensures seamless project management, faster results, and top-notch property protection.
